How Does the Idea of Vocation Matter Today?

In Luther's day, the church taught that being a called clergy person was religiously and morally more significant than being a lay person. If you wanted to be as close as possible to God, you had to enter a religious vocation. Luther protested this idea. Instead he taught that every Christian, from ordained priest to stable worker, is called by God to their vocations, and that all of these vocations are equally significant to God. This teaching unleashed unprecedented energy for worldly work in the Western world. But that was 500 years ago – does this idea matter today? To find out, join Ben Kaster and Jeff Oltmann for this two-week discussion.

Home Plate Volunteers Needed!

You can also contact Jeff Oltmann at 503-644-3011 or jeff@spspro.com

Employment is key to a stable life for young adults who are trying to get out of homelessness. The youth served by HomePlate face barriers to employment that others in the job market do not, such as a lack of previous work experience, an unreliable home address, or a nonexistent professional network. HomePlate's Youth Employment Program builds applicable skills, provides basic amenities that make looking for work more feasible, and runs programs that give youth direct opportunities to gain initial work experience that will benefit future job searches. PoP is currently not involved in this aspect of HomePlate. Would you like to be the first PoP volunteer to do it? Contact Jeff Oltmann.
